Red Circle: Arctic Hares

IT IS ESSENTIAL TO PRE-TEACH THE CONCEPTS INTRODUCED IN EACH BOOK PRIOR TO READING!

Words and Phrases for Reading and Writing

- 1 Here is a list of words that can be used for phonemic awareness activities, reading, dictation, game cards, Elkonin boxes, etc.:
- oat, oak, goat, coal, coat, load, road, soak, soap, toad, float, toast, throat, coast, loaded, floating, toasted, soaking, gloat

- 2 Here is a word chain you could complete with blending cards:

- 3 Here are phrases that can be used for reading and/or dictation practice. These phrases can be combined to create sentences:

Noun Phrases	Verb Phrases	Prepositional Phrases
her meek coach	was soaking	over the road
the loaded boat	floated	by the coastline
my green soap	was boasting	behind the oak tree
a soaring falcon	kept groaning	beside the boards

You can differentiate for your students by dropping some of the words in these phrases (e.g., the loaded boat can just be the boat).

Grapheme/Phoneme Correspondence — Tips and Activities to Try

★ Introduced in Step 1

- vowel digraph <oa>/ō/ (e.g., “coat”) • /ā/ (e.g., “basic”)

Key Concepts to Understand

- Vowel digraph <oa> represents the phoneme /ō/ as in coat. The grapheme <oa> is found in initial position as in oat and in medial position as in road. You may find <oa> at the end of a base in non-English words, such as cocoa, which comes to us via the Indigenous language Nahuatl.

Orthographic Conventions/Patterns and Generalizations — Tips and Activities to Try

★ Introduced in Step 1

- flexibility with vowel sounds (with a focus on )

Key Concepts to Understand

- a long vowel sound is often pronounced when a vowel is found at the end of a syllable (e.g., basic) – this is often referred to as an open-syllable
- rather than teaching complicated syllable division rules, it is more efficient to teach students to toggle between long and short vowel sounds (see “toggling practice” below)

Activities to Try

- provide words for toggling practice (e.g., basic, native, travel) → words without a schwa are an easier starting point than words with a schwa (e.g., bacən and pencəl)
Note: if you provide words with affixes, students should be directed to find the base before “toggling” → suffixes are units of meaning, and are not to be sounded out
- every syllable has a vowel phoneme — ask students to note how many vowels are in the base and therefore how many perceived syllables there are
- ask students to cover the section they would like to read first (e.g., with native, students may either choose *na*tive or *na*tive) → they should try both

Morphology — Tips and Activities to Try

Key Concepts to Understand

- It is important to ask students to cover the suffix with their finger in order to focus on the base when consonant clusters are in final position and have an attached suffix. When reading soaring, ask students to cover the <-ing> and read soar, ask them to release their finger and reread the entire word with the <-ing>, soaring.

IT IS ESSENTIAL TO PRE-TEACH THE CONCEPTS INTRODUCED IN EACH BOOK PRIOR TO READING!

Words and Phrases for Reading and Writing

- 1 Here is a list of words that can be used for phonemic awareness activities, reading, dictation, game cards, Elkonin boxes, etc.:
 - right, light, sigh, night, tight, flight, bright, fright, sight, might, lighting, sighs, lighted, high, sighting, nightstand, fight, thigh, spotlight, midnight

- 2 Here is a word chain you could complete with blending cards:

high → sigh → sight → right → tight → might → night → light → flight → fright → bright

- 3 Here are phrases that can be used for reading and/or dictation practice.
These phrases can be combined to create sentences:

Noun Phrases	Verb Phrases	Prepositional Phrases
Min's bright coach	lay in fright	on the high road
a slight goat	moaned and sighed	at midnight
the light switch	hit the high board	with a toad
his right thigh	wanted to fight	by the lightbulb

You can differentiate for your students by dropping some of the words in these phrases (e.g., moaned and sighed can just be sighed).

Grapheme/Phoneme Correspondence — Tips and Activities to Try

☆ Introduced in Step 2

- vowel trigraph <igh>/ī/ (e.g., “high”)

Key Concepts to Understand

- <igh> represents the phoneme /ī/ when preceded by a consonant and is often followed by a <t>
- <igh> is found in medial or final position

Note: The grapheme <igh> represents the phoneme /ā/ when preceded by an <e> (e.g., eight, sleigh). The word height has a unique story for its spelling, and isn’t introduced at this point in the series.

Morphology — Tips and Activities to Try

Words and Phrases for Reading and Writing

- 1 Here is a list of words that can be used for phonemic awareness activities, reading, dictation, game cards, etc.:
- eat, sea, flea, heat, mean, beach, beat, team, teach, heal, weak, cleaned, pleat, squeak, peace, squealing, feasted, beating, heated, dream

- 2 Here is a word chain you could complete with blending cards:

sea → seat → seal → heal → heat → meat → mean → bean → beach → reach → peach → peak → weak → tweak

- 3 Here are phrases that can be used for reading and/or dictation practice.
These phrases can be combined to create sentences.

Noun Phrases	Verb Phrases	Prepositional Phrases
the boasting team	will eat a feast	on the beach
roaming fleas	can't hear them squeal	while they clean the weak seal	can dream and heal	in the cold sea
a nice teacher	is treated to a meal of peaches and cream	on the bleak night

Grapheme/Phoneme Correspondence — Tips and Activities to Try

☆ Introduced in Step 3

- vowel digraph <ea>/ē/ (e.g., “sea”)

Key Concepts to Understand

- the three sounds of <ea> are /ē/ (sea), /ě/ (bread), and /ā/ (only in steak, great, and break)
- <ea> can be found in initial position (ease), medial position (cheat) and final position (flea)
- <ea> and <ee> are often connected as homophones (e.g., meat & meet, heal & heel, etc.)

Note: At this point students have learned that /ē/ can be spelled <ee> and <e_e>. When introducing and first working with <ea> as /ē/, it is important to tell students that all of the words they are practicing will be words where /ē/ is spelled <ea>. At this time, we want students to practice <ea>, not differentiate between graphemes that represent /ē/.

Red Circle: In the Snow

IT IS ESSENTIAL TO PRE-TEACH THE CONCEPTS INTRODUCED IN EACH BOOK PRIOR TO READING!

Words and Phrases for Reading and Writing

- Here is a list of words that can be used for phonemic awareness activities, reading, dictation, game cards, etc.:
 - snow, row, mow, tow, blow, grow, show, crow, glow, elbow, window, snowing, showed, crows, glowing, throw, slow, below, follow, blowing

- Here is a word chain you could complete with blending cards:

blown → blow → bow → row → mow → show → shown →
shows → rows → row → rowed → sowed → sow → slow

- Here are phrases that can be used for reading practice only. Two-syllable <ow> words may be challenging for writing. To use these phrases for writing, simplify them as suggested below.

Noun Phrases	Verb Phrases	Prepositional Phrases
the willow tree	might be slow to grow	across the narrow stream
a yellow bowl	was overflowing with bows	in the bright glowing window
your snow blower	will follow	along the low road
a bunch of crows	might stow away	on a slow mower

You can differentiate for your students by dropping some of the words in these phrases (e.g., in the bright glowing window can just be in the window).

When reading soaring, ask students to cover the <-ing> and read soar, ask them to release their finger and reread the entire word with the <-ing>, soaring.

High Frequency Words — Tips and Activities to Try

☆ Introduced in Step 4

- “once”
- content word: “ski”

Key Concepts to Understand

- It is beneficial to teach the words once/one/only/alone together
- only can be defined as: single, solitary, solely
- one can be defined as: a single person, thing, etc.
- once can be defined as: on one occasion
- alone is a compound of all and one and can be defined as: being on one’s own
- these words are connected in meaning, and an <o><n>
- Ski is a Norwegian word and therefore does not follow the English convention that complete words do not end in an . Skiing is the only word now used in English that has two s together. If skiing was spelled skying, the word would be seen as sky + ing.

- Here is a word chain you could complete with blending cards:

root → roof → room → zoom → zoo → too → boo → booth →
 tooth → toot → tool → fool → food → mood → moon

- Here are phrases that can be used for reading and/or dictation practice. These phrases can be combined to create sentences. A good opportunity arises to address syntax if the resulting sentence is not grammatically correct (e.g., Many strong raccoons was soon on the roof of the zoo. → Many strong raccoons were soon on the roof of the zoo.)

Noun Phrases	Verb Phrases	Prepositional Phrases
the light of the moon	needed the right tool	in the afternoon
the delighted groom	was soon	beside the bright room
a troop of baboons	held brooms	on the roof of the zoo
many strong raccoons	dug a smooth groove	under the chicken coop

Key Concepts to Understand

- <oi> is found in initial position (oil, oink), and medial position (boil, avoid)
- <oy> is usually found in final position (e.g., boy, joy), however there are a few exceptions (e.g., oyster, royal, and loyal)

Orthographic Conventions/Patterns and Generalizations — Tips and Activities to Try

★ Introduced in Step 6

- use <oi> for /oy/ in initial and medial position, and <oy> for /oy/ at the end of a base

Key Concepts to Understand

- Although there are a few exceptions to the position of <oy>, the key thing for students to understand is that when they hear /oy/ at the end of a base, it is spelled with <oy> rather than <oi> (complete English words do not end in )

Teacher Tip Sheets

Red Series: Step 10

Red Circle: Clever Dolphins

IT IS ESSENTIAL TO PRE-TEACH THE CONCEPTS INTRODUCED IN EACH BOOK PRIOR TO READING!

Grapheme/Phoneme Correspondence — Tips and Activities to Try

★ Introduced in Step 10

- digraph <ph>/f/ (e.g., “photo”)

Key Concepts to Understand

- <ph> has Greek origins: originally <ph> was the combination used by Romans to represent Greek letter phi
* sourced from Etymonline
- <ph> can be in initial position (e.g., phone), medial position (e.g., nephew), and final position (e.g., graph)

Note: At this point, students have learned that /f/ can be spelled <f>, <ff>, and <ph>. When introducing and first working with <ph> as /f/, it is important to tell students that all of the words they are practicing will be words where /f/ is spelled <ph>. At this time, we want students to practice <ph>, not differentiate between graphemes that represent /f/.

Orthographic Conventions/Patterns and Generalizations — Tips and Activities to Try

★ Introduced in Step 10

- consonant-le syllables

Key Concepts to Understand

- the <e> makes the <l> syllabic (adds a syllable)

Words and Phrases for Reading and Writing

- 1 Here is a list of words that can be used for phonemic awareness activities, reading, dictation, game cards, etc.:
 - table, tumble, ladle, staple, needle, gentle, candle, simple, bubble, puddle, little, puzzle

Word Sort

Provide students with the following (unsorted) words:

consonant preceding the <l> in <le> is not doubled	consonant preceding the <l> in <le> is doubled
tumble, table, ladle, staple, needle, gentle, candle, simple, handle	bubble, puddle, little, puzzle, battle, dazzle, gobble, giggle, pebble

Help your students notice that a doubled consonant usually marks the preceding vowel as short (e.g., dazzle). This pattern can help them with accurate decoding.

Morphology — Tips and Activities to Try

Key Concepts to Understand

- It is important to ask students to cover the suffix with their finger in order to focus on the base when consonant clusters are in final position and have an attached suffix. When reading jumping, ask students to cover the <-ing> and read jump, ask them to release their finger and reread the entire word with the <-ing>, jumping.

High Frequency Words — Tips and Activities to Try

★ Introduced in Step 10

- “some”
- Content Word: “whistle”

Key Concepts to Understand — “some”

- historically s were written as <v>s (e.g., some would have looked like svm — but more squished together) therefore s were sometimes replaced with <o>s when found beside <m>s in words

Note: some/same and come/came are best taught together

Key Concepts to Understand — “whistle”

- comes from Old English hwistle so historically /wh/ had a different sound than /w/
- <wh> words often have an “airy” sense (e.g. wheeze, whisper, whimper, whoosh) — they are also found in question words (e.g., why)

These sheets are being offered as a free download because the more we understand our language, the more powerful decodable books can be for our students. Each tip sheet provides Key Concepts to Understand and Tips and Activities for Grapheme/Phoneme Correspondence, Orthographic Conventions/Patterns and Generalizations, Morphology, and Phonetically Irregular Words. It is essential to pre-teach the concepts using this tip sheet prior to reading the book. There is nothing inherently decodable about a book. Decodability is a relationship between the student and the book. If the concepts in a book have been taught, the book is decodable.

The information for these sheets has been compiled from a wide variety of sources. Many thanks to those in the field who have researched, practiced, and shared their knowledge with educators. Please note: these sheets are based on our current understanding, both from our studies and from our personal experience. As we continue to learn, our understanding will evolve. If we reach a point where we feel these sheets need to be adjusted, we will do so and provide updated versions for free download
